JUDGES OF THE UNITED NATIONS INTERNAL JUSTICE SYSTEM

The United Nations is seeking judges for its internal system of administration of justice that addresses employment-related disputes.

The internal justice system includes a first instance United Nations Dispute Tribunal (UNDT) and an appellate instance United Nations Appeals Tribunal (UNAT).

UNDT is permanently in session, and has seats in New York, Geneva and Nairobi. UNDT is comprised of nine judges (three full-time judges and six half-time judges) who serve for a seven-year term. Half-time judges work for up to six months in a calendar year in New York, Geneva or Nairobi, and/or from their home country. Half-time judges may not be deployed in a particular year or may be deployed less than a cumulative period of six months a year, if their deployment is not justified by UNDT's caseload. The President of UNDT decides whether and where to deploy a half-time judge, including whether to make use of telecommuting in their deployment.

UNAT is not permanently in session but holds sessions as required by its caseload (currently, three sessions each year, each of two weeks duration). UNAT exercises its functions in New York but it may decide to hold sessions in Geneva or Nairobi, as required by its caseload. UNAT is comprised of seven judges, who also serve for a seven-year term.

The terms of seven judges will expire on 30 June 2023. There is an additional vacancy on UNAT due to the resignation of incumbent judge.

The United Nations is undertaking the present selection process to fill these vacancies, and is inviting applications for:

- One full-time judge for UNDT in Geneva (for a non-renewable seven-year term starting on 1 July 2023);
- One full-time judge for UNDT in Nairobi (for a non-renewable seven-year term starting on 1 July 2023);
- One half-time judge for UNDT (for a non-renewable seven-year term starting on 1 July 2023);
- Four judges for UNAT (for a non-renewable seven-year term starting on 1 July 2023); and
- One judge for UNAT (for a non-renewable term of office starting immediately upon appointment and ending on 30 June 2026).

The United Nations also covers travel expenses and daily subsistence allowance for the duration of UNAT sessions.

The qualifications and terms of judicial office of the judges and the articles governing the operation of the Tribunals are set out in the Statutes of UNDT and UNAT. The stands of judicial conduct are prescribed in the Code of Conduct for the Judges of UNDT and UNAT and related Mechanism for Addressing Complaints Regarding Alleged Misconduct or Incapacity of the Judges. These documents are available at www.un.org/en/internaljustice (in English) and www.un.org/fr/internaljustice (in French). The candidates are encouraged to familiarize themselves with these documents and with the jurisprudence of the Tribunals which is also available on the website.

The judges are expected to make themselves fully available to perform judicial functions for UNDT and UNAT, as applicable. The respective Presidents of the Tribunals are monitoring the timely delivery of judgements, while the UNDT caseload is monitored through a publicly available dashboard.

A judge of UNDT or UNAT shall not be eligible for any other appointment within the United Nations, except another judicial post, for a period of five years following his or her term of office.

The judges shall be appointed by the General Assembly from a list of two or three candidates recommended for each vacancy by the Internal Justice Council, an independent body established by the General Assembly.

Due to the sheer volume of expected applications, the Council will not be in a position to respond to any enquiries regarding the selection process, and will further contact only those applicants who will have moved forward in the selection process.
